At the outset, I remember my father, Late Swarnendu Kumar Basu whose departed soul invisibly provided me with a continuous mental support in understanding this research work and I would like to dedicate this work towards his sacred memory.

I would like to express my fathom-less gratitude to my research guide Professor Kartick Chandra Paul (Former Professor, Department of Business Administration, Vidyasagar University) and Professor Purnendu Sekhar Das (Former Professor, VGSOM, IIT, Kharagpur) for their valuable guidance, scholarly and thought-provoking inputs and consistent encouragement throughout the research work.

I wish to profusely thank Dr. Tarun Sengupta (Associate Professor of Economics, South Malda College) who always made himself available to clarify my doubts in selecting methodology despite his busy schedules. His immense knowledge and technical guidance helped me a lot to carry out my Ph.D. work smoothly.

My solicitous and humble thanks goes to Dr. Sudipta Ghosh (Assistant Professor of Commerce, P.K.College, Contai) for having his influential contribution in selecting methodology and giving meticulous suggestion regarding analysis of data. Without his assistance my research work would have taken much longer to complete.

I am extremely grateful to my Sir Bibekanada Dasmahapatra (Associate Professor of Commerce, K.D. College of Commerce) and my friend Dr. Swapan Sarkar (Assistant Professor of Commerce, Calcutta University) for their worthy information, ideas and inspirations to make this research work successful.

I would also like to thank all the members of the Ph.D. Committee and all the faculties of the Department of Commerce, Vidyasagar University for their precious advice and motivational cooperation at various points of time to accomplish my research objectives and in creating uniqueness from various perspectives. I am also indebted to my colleagues and friends for their wonderful collaboration.

I am extremely indebted to the members of my family and near-relatives as well for their sacrifice in compromising their time with a view to providing me with the opportunity or devoting more time in my research work. Special thanks must go to my mother, Mrs. Srilekha Basu, my wife, Mrs. Subarna Basu (Assistant Teacher, Belti Giribala Vidyapith) and my daughter, Miss. Samriddhi Basu who voluntarily formed an informal group with the determination of giving me relief from all sorts of domestic affairs during the period of my entire work.

Finally, I would recall the co-operation of Dhar Brothers, Kolkata, for bringing out the thesis in such an elegant form.
