I would like to express my deep sense of gratitude to my supervisors Professor Sujaya Sarkar, Professor, Department of History, Vidyasagar University, Professor Pijush Kanti Jana, Professor, Department of Library and Information Science, Vidyasagar University for their constant supervision, guidance, encouragement and inspiration throughout the period of study.

My sincere thanks to the Faculty of History, Vidyasagar University for its constant encouragement during the course of study. I would like to thank Dr. Anupam Parua, Principal, Narajole Raj College, West Bengal and Faculty of History, Narajole Raj College for their necessary co-operation.

I owe my sincere gratitude to Professor SZH Jafri, Professor, Department of History, Delhi University, Professor Shafi, and Professor Mahbubar Rahman, Professor, Department of History, Raj Shahi University, Bangladesh for their advice, inspiration during the course of research.

I must acknowledge with grateful thanks to all librarians and staff of public libraries in West Bengal and Bangladesh to provide information and necessary literatures to complete the work.

I am immensely grateful to librarians and library staff of Vidyasagar University, National Archives, New Delhi, National Library, Kolkata, West Bengal State Archives, Kolkata, Asiatic Society both Kolkata and Dhaka, Heritage Archives of Bangladesh History Trust, Raj Shahi, Bangladesh, Bengal Library Association Library, Kolkata, Bangiya Sahitya Parishad Library to give me permission to use their libraries to gather information and literatures for my research work.

I also express my grateful to citing them whose contributions are significant in this area to enrich the work. My special thanks are also extended to them whose names might have been omitted unwillingly but their help made this work anyway a complete one.

Last but not least, I feel, it is because of blessings of my parents, attachment of my daughter, best wishes of my wife, brother and other dear and near ones that this dream has come to true.
