

2. Hypothesis

Highly abundant leishmanial proteins during infection have a greater chance to be presented on MHC-II and contribute to subsequent immunity observed in cured cases of leishmaniasis.