

Acknowledgement

I would like to express my gratitude and deepest indebtedness to my respected teacher and supervisor Dr. Chandrima Chakraborty, Assistant Professor of Department of Economics, Vidyasagar University. Her untiring efforts, valuable suggestions, unceasing encouragement, affection helped me to prepare this thesis. Without her inspiration and guidance, this thesis would never have seen the light of the day.

I remain ever grateful to Professor Dipyaman Pal, Bethune College, Kolkata for the valuable inputs and suggestions provided graciously without having to fix any prior appointments.

I am grateful to Professor Arpita Ghose, Jadavpur University, Professor Ajitava Raychaudhuri, Jadavpur University, Professor Koushik Gupta, University of Calcutta and Professor Bipul Malakar, Jadavpur University. Their valuable suggestions and comments helped me a lot to upgrade my work qualitatively.

I convey my gratitude and regards to Professor K.L. Krishna, Madras Institute of Development Studies, Dr. Chiranjib Neogi, Indian Statistical Institute, Kolkata, Professor C. Veeramani, IGIDR, for thoughtful comments during the formative periods of the study.

I also extend my thanks to all faculty members, Research Scholars and staffs of the Department of Economics, Vidyasagar University for their valuable inputs. I am expressing my gratitude to the staffs of Departmental library and Central library of Vidyasagar University.

I also express my gratitude to Professor Sudipta Chakraborty, Prabhat Kumar College, Contai for inspiring me every time.

I remain ever grateful to our Hon'ble Vice- Chancellor, Registrar, all the officers and Staffs of Vidyasagar University for their kind co-operation. Without their support I may not be able to continue my work.

I must express my gratitude to the Library Officers and the staffs of Jadavpur University, Kolkata for their good co-operation. I am also indebted to the library of the Indian Statistical Institute, Kolkata and I thank all staff members out there. I express my thanks to all the staff members of the library of Centre for Studies in Social Sciences, Kolkata and Department of Commerce, Vidyasagar University.

I am also extending my thanks to all the participants of The Doctoral Thesis Conference, IBS Hyderabad of 2019 and 40th Annual National Conference of Bangiya Arthaniti Parishad for their valuable suggestions. I remain ever grateful to all the participants of the Research Scholars Seminar organized by Jadavpur University and Kalyani University of 2019 for providing valuable suggestions.

I gratefully acknowledge the funding agency, the Indian Council of Social Science Research (ICSSR) of the Government of India, for providing financial support, to complete my thesis work, in the form of Doctoral Fellowship.

I express my gratitude to my friends, Anindita Jana, Surendranath Mandi and Soma Pal, without whom this thesis would not have come to the final shape.

Last, but by no means least, this thesis would not have been possible without the confidence, endurance, loving support and blessings of my family. I wish to thank my parents and my family members whose love and support has always been a reason to learn the things and for giving me courage at every stage.

Department of Economics
Vidyasagar University
Midnapore, India
July, 2020

Susobhan Maiti